Protest Tips and Etiquette

BY: Teeth L.W.

After the murder of Amir Locke at the hands of the Minneapolis Police Department on Tuesday February 2nd, many of us are--and have been--taking to the streets to protest this injustice. This (nowhere near complete) guide on protest etiquette and tips is a combination of personal experience, advice from online circles of local activists, and just general common sense.

- When it comes to Black Lives Matter protests, if you're not Black, remember that you're there to show your support and amplify Black voices. ESPECIALLY if you're White, if they're offering the megaphone for anyone to speak, it's not for you. You are here to listen and to show support.
- You're free to document things with your phone, but please don't post anything with people's faces/identifying information in them, especially if it's someone doing art/graffiti
- Don't go alone. Have a buddy/group that you're with, and have a plan of what to do and where to go if you get separated
- Wear nondescript clothing. Even if you aren't breaking the law, law enforcement may still try to come after you, in these situations it's better to be paranoid than careless
- If you're talking to a police officer and you suspect you may get arrested, ask if you're free to leave. If the answer is yes, walk away. If the answer is no, ask if you're being arrested.
- In case you get arrested, write the contact numbers of both your parents/guardians and local legal aid organizations on your arm in Sharpie (put hairspray over it so it lasts longer)
- If you get arrested: Invoke your right to remain silent, ask for a lawyer, don't consent to police searching your phone, don't consent to a DNA sample (they might say it's standard procedure, it's not), insist that they give you a mask, if you're held for more than 48 hours, it's most likely an illegal detention, which is a violation of your Fourth Amendment Rights
- Make sure you know where the street medics are

Things to bring:

- Ibuprofen
- Water
- First aid kit
- Snacks
- Extra masks
- Phone, wallet, keys

This is nowhere near a comprehensive guide, but I hope it helps you all in your protesting adventures!

Google Easter Eggs

BY: Emmie A.

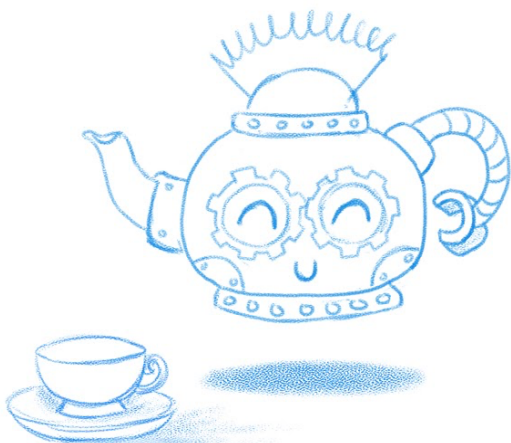

SEARCH: I'm a teapot.

This is an easter egg which was designed for server and SEO geeks. The teapot page is a 418 response code, which was initially an April Fool's Joke from 1998 that was not intended for implementation, even though Google did it anyway.

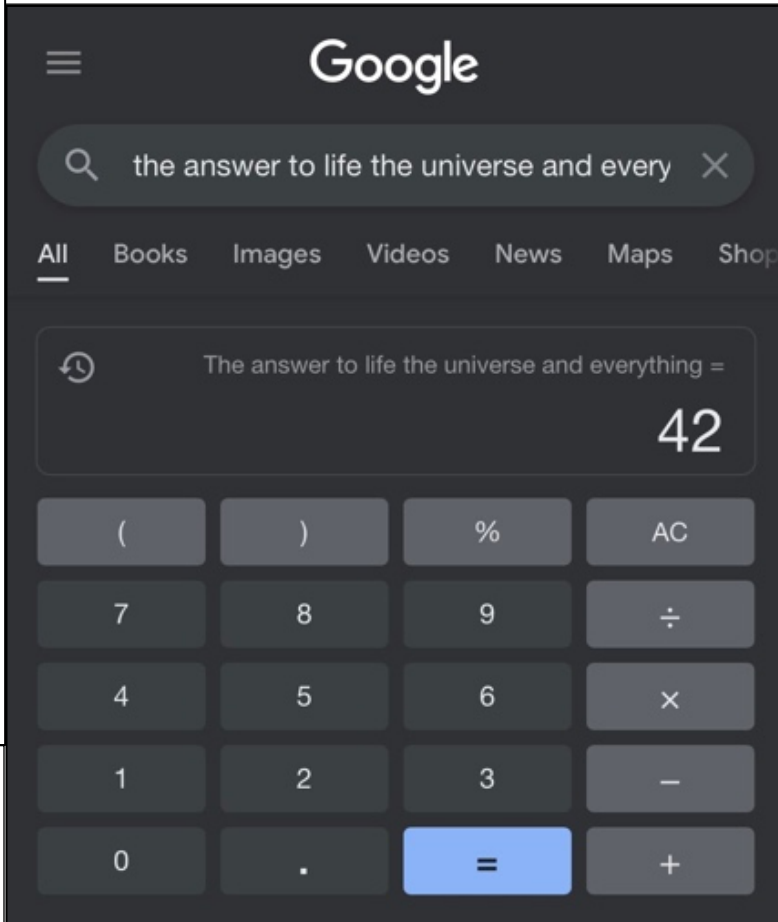

418. I'm a teapot.

The requested entity body is short and stout.
Tip me over and pour me out.

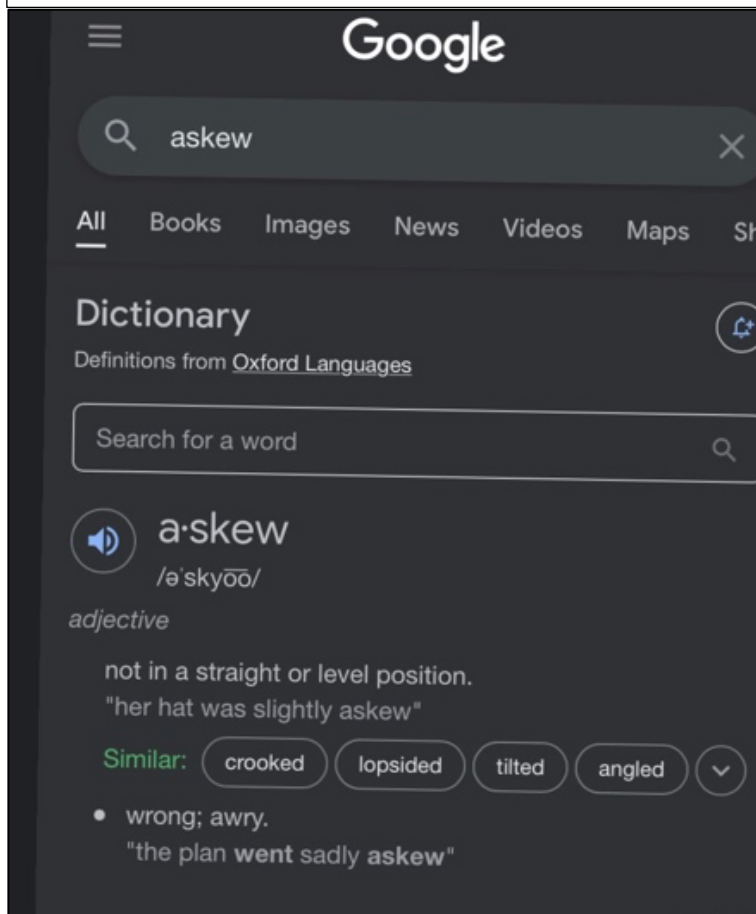

SEARCH: The answer to life, the universe, and everything.

If you look up "the answer to life the universe and everything" it brings up the Google calculator and answers as 42 as a reference to "The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy," when people gathered around a super-computer that could answer any question to ask it what the answer to life the universe and everything was and it said 42.

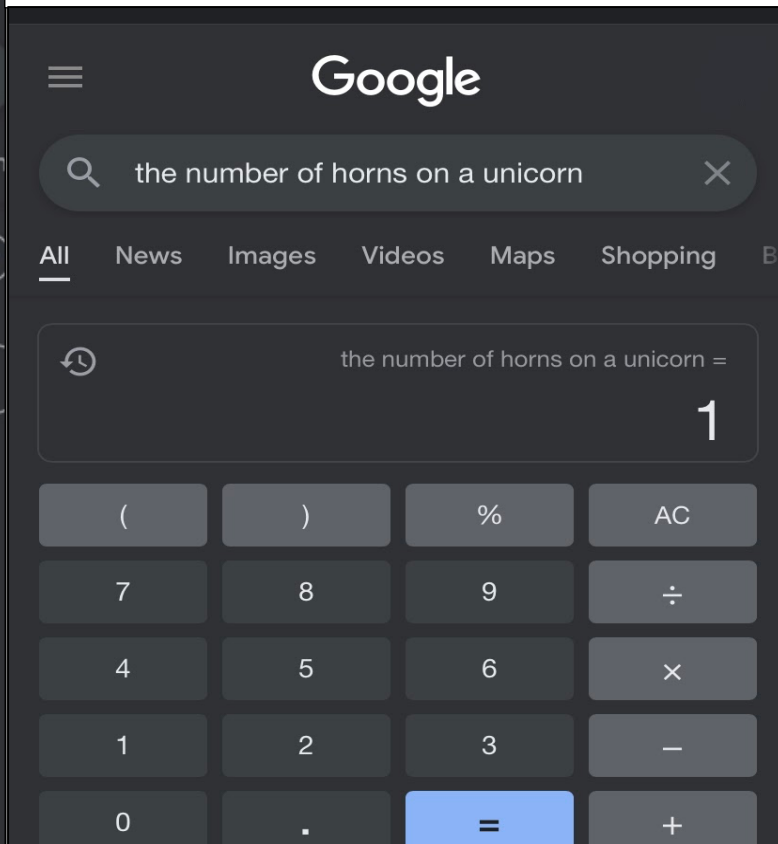

SEARCH: Askew

If you search up askew on google the screen will appear slightly tilted. This is because askew means "not in a straight or level position" meaning tilted or gone wrong.

SEARCH: The number of horns on a unicorn.

Someone needs this answered for them.

Blooket Tower Defense Mode

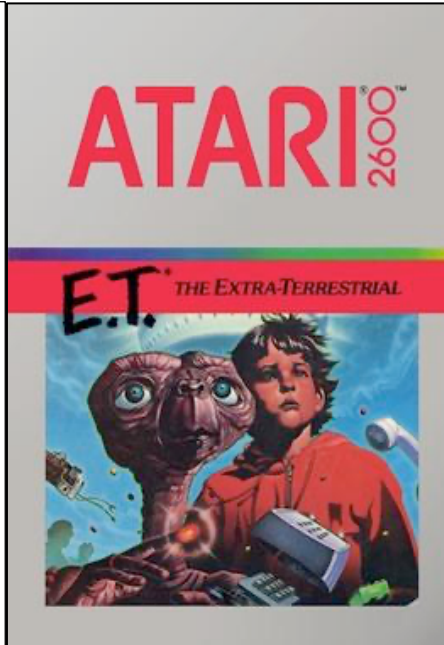

BY: Owen M.

So, I did a solo Tower Defense Mode and it was very fun. I did it on Minecraft mobs. I got to level 50 until this huge white monster came on the field. I had all hands on-deck with such good blook towers. Still, it got me, and I died. Overall, it was fun and I recommend it. You can do any mode and any area. I was doing the mine one. I would say the best strat is to get a ton of dragons [at the] start of the game and later phantom kings because if you level it up right you do 40 damage a second. I was stupid not to see a huge boss coming and was not ready. Thankfully, if you are signed into Blooket, and if you go to the exact quiz and the solo and Tower Defense it saves your progress.

The Worst Video Game Ever Made: ET for the Atari 2600

BY: Oliver T.

The worst videogame ever made was E.T for the Atari 2600. The goal was to find the pieces of the phone and call home, but it was so bad because of the holes in the ground and the 8-bit graphics. Once you completed the game you would get a feeble little end card, but who wants to spend hours for a sad 8-bit end to the game?

Book of Boba Fett (Star Wars Show)

BY: Owen M.

There is a new Star Wars show called the Book of Boba Fett. It connects to a similar series, The Mandalorian. It is a very good show, and many enjoy it. I like it because it has a lot of action. I would recommend it. Also, the Mandalorian is a good show (it has baby Yoda!). Some might know, some don't. But if you don't, give it a try!
