Mullin Announces Finance Team

The Mullin for America campaign today announced the initial members of its finance committee in support of U.S. Rep. Markwayne Mullin's bid for the United States Senate.

"We're honored to have these proud Americans in the fight with me, raising the resources necessary to compete and win," Mullin said.

Harold Hamm, an Oklahoma oil and gas entrepreneur and trusted advisor to President Trump on energy matters; and Hastings Siegfried, an executive at NORDAM, a global aerospace firm and one of Tulsa's largest employers, are key members of the committee. The finance committee leadership includes Mark Davenport, chairman of the board of Quail Creek Bank in Oklahoma City, and Todd Booze, a Norman homebuilder and real estate businessman.

The full finance committee includes:

- Chris Banning of Okmulgee
- Susan Bergen of Norman
- Todd Booze of Norman
- Tom and Sherri Boyce of Tulsa
- Chris Cline of Oklahoma City
- Mark Davenport of Oklahoma City
- Harold Hamm of Oklahoma City
- Michael and Laurie Krimbill of Tulsa
- David LeNorman of Oklahoma City
- Mitch and Betty McCuistian of Oklahoma City
- Jeff McDougall of Oklahoma City
- Hastings Siegfried of Tulsa

"These men and women believe strongly in the America First agenda and want a fighter who will fight to stop the Joe Biden agenda," Mullin said.

"Markwayne is a fighter for the America First agenda," Booze said. "He's more than just talk. He's an unapologetic defender of our freedom. He is not beholden to anyone and is focused on aggressively improving the climate for small business."

Mullin said he believes his committee includes the largest employers and job-creators in Oklahoma due to his experience building a successful business.

"Markwayne Mullin built a successful private sector business before entering politics. He understands how to make a payroll and how to meet a budget. We need a businessman in the United States Senate," Siegfried said.
