

WAYNE K. ROSS, M.D., P.C.
Specializing in Forensic and Neuropathology

---

May 13, 2013

Thomas P. Brennan Jr., Consultant
Criminal Investigative Analysis

Re: C16-119 Greenberg, Ellen

Dear Mr. Brennan,

At your request, I reviewed materials pertaining to the death of Ellen Greenberg who was found dead in her apartment in Philadelphia after sustaining multiple stab wounds. The knife was still in her chest. In addition, blood stain evidence was observed around the body in the kitchen. The door entrance locking mechanism/door was damaged.

The autopsy was performed by the Philadelphia Medical Examiner. The cause of death was multiple stab wounds and the original manner of death was a homicide. Later, the medical examiner changed the manner of death to suicide.

It is my opinion that the investigating authorities should pursue this case as a homicide. It is further my opinion to a reasonable degree of medical certainty that the manner of death is a homicide.

Sincerely,

Dr Wayne Ross

Wayne K. Ross MD, PC

