

Women & Gender Studies

Course Description:

Women and Gender Studies examines the historical perspective of women and individuals who have challenged traditional views of women and gender roles throughout history and across cultures. Students will examine various issues, experiences, and developments in policies affecting non-normative gender roles, as well as critically think and respond to the theories and methodologies relating to women and the consideration of gender in society.